THE GREAT ECLIPSE

It was Only Partially Visible at Iola but was Nevertheless a

MOST INTERESTING SIGHT

At Which Everybody Looked With Admiration-Scientists Interested the World Over

On another page of the REGISTER appear reports from various parts of the country saying that the weather conditions prevailing generally have been most favorable for the observation of the eclipse of the sun, one of the most interesting astronomical events of the century. Here in Iola, while we were out of the line of totality, the spectacle presented was nevertheless most interesting. The light softened and took on a sort of yellowish hue, so that those, if there were any who did not know what caused it, must have been much amazed.

The eclipse was total over a great area of the earth's surface, the moon, moving between the sun and the earth in a sweeping belt of shadow 50 miles broad, traveling at the rate of 68 miles a minute. The line of travel was northeast from the west coast of Mexico to Tamalipas, across the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans, over Mobile, Raleigh and Norfolk, thence across the Atlantic to Portugal and Spain in Europe and Algiers in Africa.

The partial eclipse was first seen here at about six o'clock and continued two hours and twenty minutes.

Speaking of this eclipse and the general interest attaching to it, the Kansas City World of yesterday said: "There will be a rare general eclipse and scientific institutions over all the world are preparing to make the most of it. Another such solar eclipse may not be seen again by one of the present generation. The government has made elaborate preparations to take observations near Norfolk. The astronomer of Great Britain, France and Germany will view the eclipse in Portugal and Africa."

Only about ten total eclipses of the sun occur in 100 years. None lasts over an average of more than two minutes, so that the time in 100 years allowed for study of the sun in eclipse is only about twenty minutes.

This will be the eighth total eclipse of the sun seen in the United States within this century. The first was June 16, 1806; the second, November 30, 1834; the third, July 18, 1860; the fourth, August 7, 1869; the fifth, July 29, 1878; the sixth, Jan. 11, 1880; the seventh, Jan. 1, 1889.

Successful Sneak Thief.

After taking a vacation of about ten days the sneak thief has returned to town and resumed operations Saturday night. T. T. Mabbitt, the proprietor of the restaurant in the basement under the hotel Morrow was approached by a stranger Saturday afternoon who said his name was F. J. Sampson, that he worked at the smelter, that his family lives at Neosho Falls and that he wanted to leave some money for safe keeping. Sampson had drawn the money several days previously and left it with T. M. Berris until Saturday afternoon when he drew it out intending to hire a team and drive home. Owing to the threatening sky he gave up the idea and as several people had seen him with the money he asked Mabbitt to take care of it. Mabbitt took it under protest. There were two twenty dollar gold pieces and he put this with twenty-five dollars of his own in his trousers and placed the trousers under his pillow. He sleeps in a room adjoining the restaurant and for ventilation left the door open and the screen fastened. The next morning the trousers and money were gone and a hole cut through the screen showed how the theft had been accomplished. Sampson declares that he is positive a man followed him to the restaurant when he deposited the money but he cannot tell who it was and so no arrests have been made.

Alas, The Dailies Are Dead!

From the Neodesha Register. One kissed his hand to his one-twenty-four. The other kissed his hand to his one-twenty-five. Farewells to them both, and Neodesha—Just as the sun went down.

Beginning with today the Neodesha Daily Sun and the Neodesha equally daily Register cease to exist. That sentence may sound funny, but it isn't. It is a death sentence. The Sun and the Register will hereafter slumber in the same peaceful grave, hands clasped, beneath the weeping willow and the twining vine; under the laurel, the Register; under the willows, the Sun.

No flowers.

Last Sunday evening the Register learned that the Sun intended to start a daily paper in Neodesha. It was pretty short notice for the Register, but it decided it could do just as much work for just as little money as anybody, so it started a daily, too, that appeared on the same evening that the Daily Sun did. The venture was a great success. It made a great deal of work and didn't bring in any money. That was what it was expected to do. There was a great deal of work in the world that the Register hadn't done yet and a great deal of money in the world that the Register hadn't spent and with these splendid natural resources in its favor the Register decided it could live just as long as the Sun could. It has done it and is satisfied.

To the 124 subscribers who came to it by Wednesday noon—and whose names were published yesterday—and the seventeen who have come to it since, the Register could have none but the warmest thanks. It shall always be the friend of everyone of them, whether they see fit to subscribe for the Weekly Register in the daily's place or not. To all those who had subscribed for the daily for a week from three to five papers are still due. These unexpired subscriptions will be filled with the same number of issues of the weekly—if that is satisfactory. If it isn't, you are out. The Register never refunds any money. It is against its principles—you will have to stand it that long, anyway. Several persons insisted on paying the carriers for several weeks in advance. The Register could not refuse these subscriptions without betraying to the public that it believed it was really on its last legs even before it got on its first ones. The money thus paid will be credited on the weekly unless it is desired that it be refunded. The paper will be stopped as soon as the credit expires unless otherwise ordered. The weekly will not be forced on anybody. You will all be swarming in to subscribe for it soon enough.

IOLA, KANSAS.

FROM FAR OFF LUZON

Harry Hiner, an old Iola Boy Writes and Interesting Letter to the Register

Luzon, P. I., April 7, 1900.

IOLA REGISTER:—Having read several letters written about this country I have failed to ever see where anyone has given any information in regard to these islands and what they compose. First, there are 1400 islands in all which are divided into three groups of provinces, Luzon containing thirty provinces, the Visayan group contains five and the Southern group contains five, making a total of forty provinces. Each province contains from ten to seventy-five cities and 100 to 300 barrios. Luzon is first in size and Mindanao second. The islands are mountainous, some peaks being 10,000 feet. The climate is considered very healthy. Typhoons or storms are as bad here as cyclones in Kansas. The total number of inhabitants on the entire islands is something near 9,000,000. The only religion prevailing being the Roman Catholic. More rivers than I ever saw in my life. The largest lake on Luzon, P. I., near Manila is 143 miles in circumference and twenty-five miles wide from east to west. The principal animal is the water buffalo and is used as a draft animal, found on all the islands; plenty of cattle and hogs in abundance. Hogs being the chief meat diet of the natives. There are nearly all kinds of birds and species of parrots in abundance, also crocodile and fish. Vegetation is extraordinary rich and abundant, therefore it would take and require a great deal of study and much writing to give any description whatever. The principal products are coffee, cotton, pepper, tobacco, rice, sugar cane, pine apples and a bush the fibre from which is used in manufacturing hats. Very little mining is carried on but rich ores are in abundance, coal, copper, quartz, gold, silver, lead, sulphur, mercury, marble and jasper being the principal ores.

Schools outside of Manila all teach Tagalog while in Manila Spanish is taught. The walled city of Manila has a population of 14,000 people and the streets are very narrow. Cavite, across the bay from Manila, in a modern city of 2,000 inhabitants, the buildings being mostly of stone. There are several fine churches, one being the oldest on the island, something over 300 years, besides two convents, a marine hospital, a well equipped arsenal, navy yards and dry dock, cigar factories, saw mills, soap and oil works and distilleries of spirits. It is the home of Aguinaldo. The Spanish language is mostly spoken. The towns are very thick on the entire islands. Corregidor is a small island in the entrance to Manila Bay and contains but one town and a hospital, and forms a home for light house and telegraph employees. Mindanao island is second in size. Its inhabitants can come under three heads, Christian, uncivilized and East Indians. Some thirty-six languages or dialects are spoken in all the islands.

I am detailed with the Regimental Scouts and am quartered in the same building with Col. L. A. Craig.

Respectfully,

SERGEANT H. C. HINER, Reg't. Scouts, 32nd Infantry, Manila, P. I.

KANSAS CLIPS AND COMMENTS

The final test with Neodesha mashers is to stand in the hotel alley and try to flirt with the dining room girls. One old boy recently was making the test and a jealous rival bombarded him with bricks.

Anderson county is now out of the fair business, the association having sold its property to W. B. Gowdy for $1,650 who will use it for stock lots. He is five years the county will regret this step greatly.

The desire to hear local orators and fire crackers spurt and fizzle is second in most Kansas towns this year to the desire to watch the Democratic convention at Kansas City perform those feats.

A Kansas soldier in the Philippines writes to his friends at Hutchinson that he "would rather go to Kansas than to heaven." It is all the same only reached from his place by different routes.

A traveling f-kir with a trick advertising scheme skinned the Concordia merchants out of $500 and set them by their ears so they are thinking of changing the town's name to Concordia.

The Parsons Sun advises its readers to hold on to their pecans as there is a shortage reported. Most Kansans can carry their pecan output in their vest pocket so the request will be cheerfully complied with.

The Abilene Chronicle in scare headlines says that "Here's a chance. A Junction City man wants a wife and wants her bad." The gentleman is wasting his money in advertising in Kansas papers for that kind—there are none.

The average Kansas editor is a good friend of the girls of his town and urges the boys to marry home girls, roasts them when they fail and in his anxiety to see them married would wed them all himself were he not tied by the law.

The Parsons News darkly hints that if the asylum goes elsewhere there will be several shooting stars in the political heaven. When shooting stars become so common in heaven it is time all sane men took to the asylum.

Cherryvale has always received her water from a corporation pond and now that it is dry and the company has served notice of quitting the city will substitute bonds for ponds and build a plant. Here is one case where watered stock will be acceptable.

The Abilene Chronicle thinks that before the campaign is over the Democrats will be sympathizing with the Sultan of Turkey. They ought to. The Sultan seems to be financially situated about like the Democrats usually fix this country.

It is poems like this from the Chautauque Times which are making the small towns anxious to get water works:

She's fairer than a lily,
And she's sweeter than a rose,
And she knocks the neighbors silly
When she wields the garden hose.
She lifts her skirts from danger
With her left hand, while her right
Grabs the nozzle, and the stranger
Gets a very pleasing sight.
The neighbors' eyes all twinkle
And their interest daily grows,
For they like to see her sprinkle,
And they like to see her hose.

The calamity papers are of the same sickening hue on the editorial page as of yore, but the local page daily explodes the editorials. For instance the Pittsburg Tribune has left no stone unturned to convince its readers that the present system of the United States government makes the poor poorer and gives only the rich man a show, and yet, on the local page this week it notes the departure of an old French farmer for France and says: "While he came to this country poor he goes to his old home a man worth a good deal of cash and property." It is probably true that writers of calamity editorials keep cotton in their ears.

ST. LOUIS STRIKE.

After Twenty Days the End Seems As Far Off As Ever.

A MEETING OF CITIZENS CALLED.

Both Sides Stand Firm—The List of Casualties in the Collision Between the Police and Strikers and Their Sympathizers.

St. Louis, May 25.—Yesterday was the twentieth day of the street railway strike and the end seems as far away as ever, both the Transit company and its employees standing firm in their respective positions. Not a car on the Transit company's system has been run since the strike began without police protection. In consequence of there not being enough police to guard the 500 or more cars usually operated, less than a quarter of that number has been run by the company, over only a part of its 22 divisions and lines.

Since the 5th of May, when the strike began, there has been numerous collisions between the police and the strikers and the latter's sympathizers. Hardly a day during that time has been without somebody being wounded by bullets or injured by flying missiles and police clubs. The list of casualties presents four persons shot and killed, 22 wounded by bullets and 50 or more injured in other ways. Two of the killed were innocent bystanders, a striking motorman and an emergency policeman completing the number. Several of the wounded are in a critical condition and may die. It is estimated by the strikers that less than 50 of their number—3,325—who struck have returned to work. Those, with the street car men imported from other cities, are operating the Transit company's cars. It is asserted that at least 50 of the imported men have joined the strikers.

All the points of issue between the company and its striking employees have been agreed to except that of reinstating all the men who went out in their old positions. The company refuses to displace the men they have hired since the strike began while the strikers decline to sign any agreement that does not give all the old men their places again. Several attempts have been made to bring the employers and employees together, but without success and thus the matter stands.

A meeting of citizens has been called for this afternoon in the directors' room of the Merchants' exchange for the purpose of discussing plans for the amicable settlement of the street car employees' strike.

As the result of an encounter last night between striking and non-striking employees of the Transit system three men were shot, one being fatally and the others seriously wounded. As Philip Sullivan, James Sullivan and Patrick O'Connell, strikers, were passing through Lafayette park they were approached from the rear and fired upon by three men said to be in the company's employ. One of the bullets passed through Philip Sullivan's right lung, giving him a mortal wound. James Sullivan received a ball in the left cheek and O'Connell was shot through the right leg. Accounts of the affair differ, some bystanders claiming that it was a deliberate attempt at assassination on the part of the company's new employees, while others aver that it was nothing more or less than a pitched battle between the two factions. A riot call was at once sounded, but the three unknown men made good their escape by the time the police arrived on the scene.

THE CUBAN SCANDAL.

Both Houses of Congress Have Taken Action Looking to a Thorough Investigation of the Postal Frauds.

Washington, May 25.—Both houses of congress Saturday took action looking to a thorough investigation of the Cuban scandal. The senate passed the Bacon resolution, directing its committee on relations with Cuba to make a thorough investigation regarding all receipts and expenditures in Cuba since American occupation, and the house two resolutions calling for information. One of the house resolutions asks the secretary of war for a detailed statement of payments made from the revenue of Cuba and Porto Rico, "and the necessity therefor." The other calls upon the postmaster general for information as to a report of E. G. Rathbone in April, in which he stated that the postal accounts in Cuba were correct.

A "Handicap" Beer Drinking Contest. New York, May 25.—Temperance people are greatly agitated over a "handicap beer drinking contest" announced in the programme of the Columbia college senior's class day. The comic athletic games, it is announced, will conclude with a beer drinking contest in which the class champion must be scratch man and consume a certain number of glasses before the handicapped ones start. Mrs. Ella L. Boole, president of the state W. C. T. U., has written a scorching letter to President Seth Low, of the college, on the subject. The matter was also discussed Sunday in Calvary M. E. church, the principal Methodist church in this city. Mrs. Boole in the church told of the beer drinking contest, and the congregation of 2,000 gasped.

BLACK BISHOP—14238.

BLACK BISHOP has been shown at numerous fairs during the past six years, and has been a prize winner wherever shown. In offering this horse for public service your attention is called to his magnificent breeding—a combination of the best families known, and with more record-breaking blood close up in his pedigree than any other horse ever offered for service in Kansas. His colts show great speed and a fine way of going and all are very intelligent and tractable. As an individual he ranks A. 1. as all his colts are of good conformation, size and color. BLACK BISHOP will make the season of 1900 at J. R. Doniphan's, one-half mile east and one-fourth mile south of Iola, at the low price of $10 and $15. This is a good time to breed to a good horse cheap, as many horses with less individuality are standing at three times this price. DUNLAP & LONGSHORE, Owners.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended by all druggists in the world. For sale by Evans Bros.

Parus Sheridan, of the Paola Spirit is ferriest the peddler and he recently made this offer: "The Spirit neither advises nor excuses violence, law breaking or wrong doing, but for the first dead peddler killed in Miami county, while trying to beat some resident out of money on any sort of a scheme, the editor agrees to pay for a lot in any cemetery in the county and erect a monument bearing this inscription:
